Private Credit Screening Memo — Younited Financial

Sector: Fintech | Retrospective screen of public financials (no live facility) | Prepared by: Muskan Chaudhary

Decline

Composite score: 1.67 / 5.00
Do not proceed -- LOW DATA CONFIDENCE: rating is based on partial information, treat as directional only.

Six-Pillar Scorecard

Data coverage: 30% of pillar weight. Pillars without public data: Gross Margin, Cash Runway, Burn Multiple, Leverage / Debt Coverage. The composite score below is calculated only from scored pillars, reweighted to sum to 100%; it is not padded with assumptions for missing fields.

Pillar	Weight	Value	Score	Commentary
Revenue Growth (YoY)	20%	-7.0% YoY (sector median 55%)	1	Revenue moved from 101,755,000 to 94,671,000 (same currency/unit as entered).
Gross Margin	15%	Not applicable	N/A	Not meaningful for a licensed lender: IFRS revenue here is net interest income plus fee income, not a software/product margin -- there is no comparable 'cost of revenue' line to net it against.
Cash Runway	20%	Not applicable	N/A	Younited is funded by customer deposits and wholesale borrowing, not an equity cash pile being drawn down -- a 'months of runway' calculation would misrepresent how the business is actually funded.
Burn Multiple	20%	Not applicable	N/A	Same reason as runway: the FY2024 net loss was ~74% driven by one-off SPAC listing and share-based payment costs, not cash burn against growth, and the funding model isn't equity-burn-based.
Leverage / Debt Coverage	15%	Not applicable	N/A	The balance sheet (EUR832.7m deposits, EUR60.6m institutional borrowing) is leverage by design as a regulated credit institution, not incremental risk layered on an equity base -- the right lens is capital adequacy/liquidity ratios, not a debt-to-revenue score.

Pillar	Weight	Value	Score	Commentary
Governance & Concentration	10%	3/5 (analyst input)	3	Closed a SPAC merger with Iris Financial in December 2024, becoming a listed group (Euronext Amsterdam/Paris/Frankfurt, ticker YOUNI) and redomiciling from the Cayman Islands to Luxembourg. Externally reported as dilutive to historical shareholders (~57% discount versus prior valuation, per startup-in-europe.com). The FY2024 consolidated financial statements received an unqualified audit opinion from KPMG Luxembourg with no going-concern qualification identified. Total equity actually rose to EUR238.5m (from EUR143.4m) because the SPAC capital increase (EUR159.5m) outpaced the net loss.

Scores are benchmarked against sector medians and top-quartile figures (see benchmarks.py and SOURCES.md); governance is analyst-assigned. Weighted contribution of each scored pillar to the composite: Revenue Growth (YoY) 0.20, Governance & Concentration 0.30.

Financial Snapshot

Current Revenue/ARR	EUR 94,671,000
Prior Period Revenue/ARR	EUR 101,755,000
Gross Margin	Not publicly disclosed
Monthly Net Burn	Not publicly disclosed
Cash on Hand	Not publicly disclosed
Net New Revenue/ARR (TTM)	Not publicly disclosed
Existing Debt	None identified

Key Risks & Notes

Scored from the audited FY2024 consolidated IFRS financial statements (KPMG-audited, the primary source, not an aggregator). Revenue declined 7.0% YoY (EUR101.76m to EUR94.67m) -- a real but fairly modest decline, notably smaller than the 27% figure a Yahoo Finance data feed had suggested before the primary source was checked. The headline net loss worsened sharply from EUR(49.7)m to EUR(83.4)m, but roughly EUR61.6m of that swing is attributable to one-off, largely non-cash items tied to the SPAC transaction: a EUR29.9m listing expense and EUR31.7m of accelerated share-based payment recognition triggered by the cancellation of legacy incentive plans at closing. Stripped of those, core operating performance was closer to flat year over year. H1 2025 results (not scored here, outside the FY2024 filing) showed revenue up 48% YoY, suggesting the FY2024 dip was not the start of a sustained decline.

Governance: Closed a SPAC merger with Iris Financial in December 2024, becoming a listed group (Euronext Amsterdam/Paris/Frankfurt, ticker YOUNI) and redomiciling from the Cayman Islands to Luxembourg. Externally reported as dilutive to historical shareholders (~57% discount versus prior valuation, per startup-in-europe.com). The FY2024 consolidated financial statements received an unqualified audit opinion from KPMG Luxembourg with no going-concern qualification identified. Total equity actually rose to EUR238.5m (from EUR143.4m) because the SPAC capital increase (EUR159.5m) outpaced the net loss.

Data notes: Gross margin, monthly net burn, cash-on-hand-based runway, and leverage are intentionally left unscored (not merely undisclosed) for this company -- see excluded_pillars. Younited is a licensed, deposit-and-wholesale-funded consumer credit institution, not an equity-funded startup: its balance sheet (EUR832.7m in customer deposits, EUR60.6m in loans from financial institutions) is deliberately leveraged as its core funding model, so a 'debt-to-revenue' leverage score or a startup-style 'cash runway' calculated the way this tool does for other companies would be actively misleading rather than merely approximate. The right lens for a licensed lender is capital adequacy and liquidity coverage ratios, which are outside the scope of this tool. Source: Younited Financial S.A. Consolidated Financial Statements FY2024, provided directly by the user.
